"Most of all I would like to thank you for the intellectual stimulation. I admire the way you allowed the group to connect emotionally with their understanding of sustainable development and their motivations and then encouraged us to apply that passion/drive in a practical but also creative manner in the corporate world. It was the perfect balance of emotion, concept and practical application."

"In the summer 2007, I had the unique experience to learn from a group of innovative sustainable organizers who are building creative solutions to some of the most complex community issues. I-SEA brings innovative and thoughtful economic, environmental, social planners together to build sustainable partnerships and cultivate new opportunities for sustainable growth. I-SEA provided access to resources which helped me creatively think about environmental and social challenges and how we can build a more sustainable future. Thanks Mark, Margery and the I-SEA partners for your important capacity building!"

"I participated in the Salt Spring study abroad class in the summer of 2005. I enjoyed the class very much, and learned a great deal. It is a great way to get some real-world consulting experience, as well as to earn six credits during the summer semester. During the class, my group worked with various organizations on the island to create a labeling program for "green accommodations." Before our trip, we researched our topic area, communicated with our clients on Salt Spring, and prepared surveys that we conducted while on the island. While on the trip, we also had the opportunity to hear several interesting guest speakers as well as to enjoy the laid-back culture of Salt Spring. I highly recommend this course!"
